A. 25-1569 Presentation, discussion, and possible acceptance of the April-September 2025 Broken Arrow Economic Development Corporation Biannual Report

James Bell, CEO of the Broken Arrow Chamber of Commerce and Economic Development Corporation, presented Item 25-1569, a biannual update on the Broken Arrow Economic Development Corporation's work from April through September 2025, highlighting strong momentum in business retention, attraction, workforce development, and strategic initiatives. The EDC, operating as a public-private partnership with the City, schools, and Chamber, is actively managing nearly $100 million in capital investment from existing businesses, creating more than 100 above-average-wage jobs, while also working with 13 prospective companies representing up to 900 jobs and $1.3 billion in potential investment. The report outlined major expansions and relocations, a robust and active project pipeline focused on aerospace and advanced manufacturing, and significant workforce engagement through job seekers, career fairs, and student outreach. Additional progress included entrepreneurship support, marketing and talent initiatives, and advancement of the ArrowForge Innovation District, with CSI Aerospace announced as its first tenant. The update concluded by emphasizing strong regional advocacy, award-winning research and marketing efforts, and a development pipeline that positions Broken Arrow for sustained short- and long-term economic growth.

During the discussion of the EDC update, council members praised data showing that Broken Arrow ranks among much larger cities for online traffic, calling it an impressive achievement. City Manager Spurgeon commended the EDC team for its visibility, networking, and relationship-building efforts that promote Broken Arrow and asked for clarification on the use of non-disclosure agreements in economic development. Mr. Bell explained that NDAs are common because companies often need confidentiality during site selection to address employee concerns, competitive risks, or morale issues, and that, in many cases, initial contact occurs through site consultants before the company's identity is known. Mr. Spurgeon emphasized that NDAs do not prevent the Council from receiving complete information when decisions are required, notably when incentives are involved. Mr. Bell confirmed that the city always has complete details before any agreement or assistance is considered, ensuring Council decisions are fully informed.

B. 25-1750 Presentation and discussion of the Broken Arrow Chamber of Commerce 2025 Best Practices trip to Franklin and Murfreesboro, TN

James Bell, CEO of the Broken Arrow Chamber of Commerce and Economic Development Corporation, presented Item 25-1750. He thanked Council and staff for their strong participation in the Chamber's Best Practices trip. He emphasized that the purpose was not civic tourism but learning from comparable communities to inform Broken Arrow's future decisions. Visits to Franklin and Murfreesboro reinforced that Broken Arrow is on the right trajectory, particularly with downtown planning, City Hall strategy, workforce and education alignment, and long-term civic thinking. Key takeaways included the importance of integrating civic facilities as catalysts for district growth, using plain-language communication and digital tools to build public trust, supporting mixed-use density to strengthen downtowns, and treating education as a core economic driver closely aligned with workforce and industry. The trip highlighted opportunities to deepen partnerships among the city, schools, higher education, industry, and the Chamber, as well as to advance initiatives like ArrowForge and long-range planning assets. Mr. Bell noted that the shared experience strengthened leadership relationships, feedback called for broader participation and more focus on workforce and housing, and the effort is now moving from learning to execution through convenings, partnerships, and concrete next steps.
